

ORDER ROUTING DISCLOSURE

vFinance Investments seeks to route limit and market orders to market centers that provide you with the best combination of price, speed and size, and result in what we believe to be best execution. vFinance Investments does not presently receive payment for order flow from third parties; however, the Firm does stand to share in 100% of the profits (or losses it generates by trading as principal with its client's orders.

Additional information regarding vFinance Investments order routing practices is available upon written request to the Firm.